Biography

Gabi Tomé is a multidisciplinary performance artist, musician, and sound creator whose practice is rooted in experimentation, improvisation, and interdisciplinarity. After more than a decade as a jazz guitarist, she shifted towards hybrid forms that blend music, theatre, clown, digital arts, and site-specific performance. Her work explores vulnerability, spontaneity, and imperfection through immersive performances where sound becomes a vehicle for raw, ephemeral emotional experiences.

She has collaborated with a variety of artists and collectives, including Bianca Rocha, Noé Lira, Charogne, Jjanice+, Funklion, Ambroise, and Lotus Collective. As a composer, Gabi co-wrote and produced Complices with Funklion, composed You Are Safe for La Peluda's debut album, and created the complete soundtrack for Phantasme, a production by Cirque Intime.

Her most recent project—a fusion of free jazz, clown, theatre, and live-coded visuals (Hydra)—has been presented in Mexico, Germany, and Montreal. Influenced by an artistic residency in Germany, where she explored puppetry and physical performance, Gabi now creates stage experiences where musical improvisation meets performative gesture. Her sonic approach is both intuitive and technological, integrating electric guitar, digital tools, and real-time visuals.
